Night-And-Day Sessions Faced By Ohio's House

By WILLIAM S. VANCE
Review Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS, Ohio — Saddled with a work load that has tripled in two weeks, the 105th Ohio General Assembly will be whipped into a legislative gallop when special sessions resume here Monday.

Most of the burden now rests with the House, whose members have been told to prepare for day and night floor sessions during the abbreviated pre-Thanksgiving work week.

The spurs are being applied by House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan. With one eye on the clock and the other on the growing stack of legislation requested by Gov. James A. Rhodes, Cloud is urging the House to clean up most of its work by Wednesday.

Time Runs Short
This push comes at a time when lawmakers were beginning to wonder whether they would have time to clear their desks before the 106th General Assembly comes to town Jan. 4.

And it comes amid grumbling by legislators from both parties that the governor has packed the agenda for this special session with many proposals that could—and should—be handled during the next regular session.

Three times in the last two weeks the governor has expanded his original 12-item call to the Assembly. The agenda now lists 38 proposals and Rhodes has constitutional authority to add to that list for any purpose any time before the 105th ceases to exist at midnight Dec. 31.

Running Out Of Work?

One lawmaker, repeating an "inside" joke that has been making the rounds here, predicted Rhodes will have one more expansion of his call.

"The governor will ask us to abolish the 106th General Assembly," he said. "After he's through with us he won't need a legislature for another two years."

No one could wish this were less a joke and more fact than Rhodes himself.

While he maintains there is an emergency aspect to most of the items he has added to the call, the biggest emergency in his eyes is the political complexion of the next legislature.

GOP Control Diminishes

He has a firm Republican majority in both houses of the current legislature. And he has had fairly consistent cooperation from the Democrats who, after token opposition to some of his programs, generally have fallen into line with their GOP colleagues when it came time to vote.

It will be a different story on the 106th. Republicans will continue to control the House but their majority will be insufficient, for example, to muster the three-fourths vote needed to pass a bill.

Congo Troops Advance

Belgians Ready To Rescue 1,000

BULLETIN
LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — The Congolese army swept across the Lova River today, the last major obstacle to the rebel capital of Stanleyville where 1,000 foreigners are held as hostages.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — The Congolese Army moved closer to Stanleyville today while a Belgium paratroop unit was poised off Africa's west coast ready to liberate 1,000 whites held hostage in the rebel capital.

Premier Moise Tshombe's government, meanwhile, rapped the United States and Belgium for attempting to negotiate with the rebels without its consent.

It also warned Belgium that a unilateral decision to send troops into the troubled country would be aggression but expressed willingness to study a proposal for such an action.

Belgium announced Friday that a battalion of about 500 tough combat men were at British-held Ascension Island prepared to intervene if needed. A foreign ministry spokesman said U.S. Air Force transport planes flew the paratroopers to the South Atlantic island.

The red-beretted soldiers include seasoned officers who fought in World War II and in the Korean Conflict.

At United Nations Headquarters in New York, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant called for possible U.N. Security Council action to head off a crisis. He did not, however, recommend a specific session.

An estimated 2,000 Congolese moved north from the tin mining town of Puna toward Stanleyville in a drive that reportedly encountered little resistance. Informed sources said the army, led by white mercenaries, easily captured Puna, 180 miles from Stanleyville.

The Congolese army's commander, Gen. Joseph Mobutu, has promised to take Stanleyville by next week. The offensive began Thursday at Kinshasa, 250 air miles from the rebel stronghold.

Meanwhile, both the United States and Belgium awaited a reply from rebel leader Christophe Gbenye on their efforts to set up negotiations for release of the hostages. The Congolese government has broadcast an appeal to the Communist-backed insurgents to surrender.

First Talks Since Soviet Changes

Rusk, Gromyko May Meet In New York In 10 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko may meet in New York in about 10 days for the first high-level talks on U.S.-Soviet relations since new leaders took power in Moscow last month.

Soviet diplomats here say Gromyko presumably will attend opening sessions of the U.N. General Assembly, as he has in past years.

Rusk plans to go to New York Nov. 29, primarily to hold talks with foreign ministers present at the assembly meetings. The General Assembly will open Dec. 1.

A sharp U.S.-Soviet clash is in prospect over Russia's refusal to pay assessments levied for U.N. peace-keeping operations. Under U.N. Charter provisions, the Soviet Union stands to lose its assembly vote because its debts are more than two years old.

The United States is insisting that the charter requirement be strictly enforced, and a bitter fight over this issue could cloud U.S.-Soviet relations.

Apart from the payments dispute, there have been signs from both Moscow and Washington of some desire to improve relations and further ease East-West tensions, perhaps by concluding some new agreement in the disarmament field or on new matters of practical cooperation.

Within the week the United States and the Soviet Union signed in Moscow an agreement to cooperate in research on the desalinization of sea water. On that occasion Gromyko told U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler that the Soviet Union would do its utmost to solve existing problems between the two countries.

Biting Cold Hits Eastern Half Of U.S.

Arctic Air Spreads Southward; Freeze Warnings Posted

By The Associated Press
The coldest weather of the season, along with snow and gusty winds, knifed across wide areas in the eastern half of the nation today, cutting off the long period of mild autumn temperatures.

Arctic air poured into the north central states, dropping temperatures far below zero and 20 or more degrees below

Temperature To Dip To Chilly 10-15 Low

A late-autumn "cold wave" that may plunge temperatures to a goose-pimples 10 to 15 to-night was riding into the Tri-State District on blustery winds that pelted the area with snow flurries today.

Some parts of Ohio may get 8 degrees tonight but the range will be generally in the teens with snow flurries continuing. The sharp drop in the mercury apparently cut off the threat of light snow although some rural sections reported light accumulations swept by the biting wind. The high today may not go above 25. Sunday will see snow flurries and continued cold.

normal marks. The cold air spread eastward and southward and the mercury hit freezing in sections of the Southland. Freeze warnings were posted for Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

The biting cold struck a month before the start of the winter season.

Cold wave warnings were issued by the Weather Bureau for eight Midwest states from the Dakotas to Kansas and north-west Illinois. The zero zone covered areas through Minnesota to Nebraska and the Dakotas into northeast Montana.

A storm center raced across the Great Lakes toward Canada. Stiff winds whipped heavy snow squalls off Lake Michigan and Lake Erie. Seven inches of snow fell in South Bend, Ind., the scene of one of today's major college football games — Iowa at Notre Dame, the nation's No. 1 team.

Wind gusts up to 55 miles per hour off Lake Erie lashed Buffalo and western New York early today. The Weather Bureau in Buffalo predicted heavy snow accumulations.

A blustery snowstorm, with winds gusting up to 75-mph, swept over western Michigan Friday. An apartment building under construction in Benton Harbor collapsed. No injuries were reported. Snow from two to three inches blanketed the state.

The mercury dropped to 32 in Meridian, Miss., and Tuscaloosa, Ala. and 30 in Little Rock, as the icy air drifted southward from the snow-covered northern states.

Three deaths were attributed to the stormy weather in Illinois. Strong winds toppled a metal covering from the top of a five-story building in Champagne and killed a man. Two persons were killed in a head-on collision of two cars in zero visibility caused by blowing snow near Watseka.

The Day That Kennedy Was Assassinated

'A Shining Light Had Gone Out'

On that fateful day in Dallas, Jack Bell was riding in the presidential motorcade — four cars behind President John F. Kennedy's limousine. Bell, veteran political writer and chief of the AP's Senate staff, recalls the tragedy of last Nov. 22.

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — It still is a bad dream that couldn't happen in real life. But it did on that day of Nov. 22, 1963, when a vibrant young President was murdered.

It had rained in Fort Worth, Tex., that morning. When I peered out of the window of my hotel room I saw that despite the drizzle, a crowd already had gathered in a parking lot across the street where President Kennedy was scheduled for a brief appearance.

By the time the smiling President stepped out of an elevator in the crowded lobby two hours later, the sun had broken through. Flanked by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Gov. John B. Connally of Texas, the President walked across the street, spoke briefly.

In a high good humor he explained to the friendly crowd (Turn to Page 3, Column 1)

One Woman Enters Hospital, Another Hurt But Slightly

An East End woman was hospitalized and another was hurt seriously late Friday afternoon when the brakes failed and their auto jumped a curb and struck the guide wire of a utility pole.

Mrs. Hilda Harris, 49, of 1071 Pennsylvania Ave., was in "fair" condition at City Hospital with a possible head injury received in the mishap at 4:25 p.m. on Broadway near E. 3rd St.

Mrs. Harris was a passenger in a car operated by Mrs. Mary Lou Adkins, 22, of 1725 Holiday St., who was treated for a

Pair Indicted By U.S. Jury In Horse Bets

An East Liverpool man and a Florida companion have been indicted by the Federal Grand Jury at Pittsburgh in connection with alleged horse bets between West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Zora Trumbo, 47, of Miami, and Paul V. Dawson, 45, of East Liverpool are accused of interstate transmission of wagering information.

Amo Mastroianni, operator of a service station in Rochester, Beaver County, told authorities Trumbo and Dawson phoned betting instructions to him from Waterford Park last Aug. 29.

The men told him to bet $200 on a horse that won and paid $23.80 for a $2 ticket, Mastroianni said.

He admitted he had placed wagers for Trumbo and Dawson before, but said he didn't this time.

Instead, he called police after the men phoned to say they were coming to collect.

Forty-four persons in all were named in the indictments returned Friday.

The nine men and nine women on the jury returned their verdicts to Judge John L. Miller. Then they retired again to hear more witnesses in other cases.

1964 Session Closes

3 Decrees Issued By Pope, Council

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI and the Vatican Ecumenical Council today proclaimed three historic decrees defining shared leadership at the summit of their church and new approaches to Christian unity.

At formal public ceremonies closing the 1964 session of the council, the assembled Roman Catholic prelates issued these decrees:

1. "De Ecclesia" (on the Nature of the Church), defining the concept of collegiality that the bishops collectively share power with the Pope over the Church.

2. "De Oecumenismo" (on Unity), outlining ways Roman Catholics might join other Christians on the path to Christian unity through common prayer and in other ways.

3. "De Ecclesialis Orientalibus Catholicis" (On the Catholic Oriental Churches), dealing with Eastern Rite Catholics and their relations with their non-Catholic Orthodox Christian neighbors.

The lavish ritual inside St. Peter's Basilica opened when Pope Paul was carried in on his portable throne at the end of a colorful procession of the 2,000 cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops and bishops. Voices of the Sistine Choir flowed through the church.

Pope Paul and 24 other prelates then con-celebrated a Mass, just as was done on Sept. 14 for the opening of this Council session.

But the documents on religious liberty, the Church in the modern world, pastoral duties of bishops and other topics are still to be completed.

Conservatives who opposed the declaration on religious liberty succeeded in preventing a final vote on it in this session.

An American-instigated petition by 1,400 bishops for a vote during this session was turned down Friday by the Pope.

Johnson City, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson has made a final decision on two more 1965 programs: to try to beautify American highways and, by 1969, to radically improve methods of purifying salt water.

These ambitious plans, a part of the "Great Society" proposals Johnson will submit to Congress next year, were revealed Friday by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall after a day-long visit at the LBJ Ranch 15 miles west of here.

Udall, who flew back to Washington Friday night, was succeeded in the parade of Cabinet visitors by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

The interior chief, despite a sniffly nose, seemed pleased with his first visit to the chief executive's 400-acre ranch. Asked by newsmen if he expected to remain in the Cabinet, he

Beaver Local Driver Sued For $12,000

Calcutta Man, Wife Claim Bus Struck Her During Protest

A 25-year-old Calcutta mother and her husband have filed a $12,000 suit in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon against a Beaver Local school bus driver, claiming she suffered injuries when struck by his bus during a "mothers march" Nov. 11 on St. Clair Ave. Ext.

Mrs. Betty Grey alleges in a petition filed Friday she was struck on the left side by a bus operated by Hugh Barbour of R. D. 2, causing $10,000 personal injuries.

Her husband, James, asks $2,000 for loss of his wife's services.

Both claim negligence on the part of the driver for allowing the vehicle to move without warning.

The incident stemmed from the protests by a number of mothers against a Board of Education order requiring students residing within a mile of schools to walk to school.

The board has cited the lack of operating revenue for cutbacks in transportation and other school programs.

Barbour said on the day of the reported incident that he knew of no person struck by his bus. He and other drivers reported incidents of mothers gathering about buses in an effort to prevent them from moving.

The filing of the suit marks the second time the school bus

Monaca Passenger Hurt As Auto Wrecks

Robert Dixon, 19, of Monaca was listed in "critical" condition today at the City Hospital with injuries received in an auto wreck early this morning on Pennsylvania Route 30, just east of the West Virginia state line.

Dixon suffered a fractured skull and a badly lacerated face when the auto in which he was a passenger left the road and struck a fence.

Jerome M. White, 24, of Freedom, the driver, was unhurt. The Carnegie Barracks of the State Police investigated the accident at 1 a. m.

Hopes Eyed For Accord In Dispute

Joint Meetings Of Union, Company Officials Hold Key

BULLETIN
CHICAGO (AP) — Three of the six railroad shop craft unions that threatened a nationwide strike Monday signed a three-year contract with the nation's carriers today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Federal mediators, eyeing a Monday morning strike deadline, planned lengthy meetings with railroad and union officials today in hopes of reaching an agreement in a wage dispute and head off a walkout which could halt most of the nation's rail traffic.

Mediators hoped for a joint meeting of the carriers and officials of six shop craft unions to settle the 18-month-old dispute involving some 140,000 workers.

Francis A. O'Neill, chairman of the National Mediation Board, continued to express hope that an agreement would be reached before the scheduled start of the strike, 6 a.m. local time Monday.

A strike would halt service on 187 railroads and terminal switching companies that handle 90 per cent of the nation's rail traffic. Other unions are expected to observe the picket lines that would be set up by the shop craft unions. The shop craft union members are in the non-operating group and are not actually involved in the movement of trains.

The railroads today announced that an agreement had been reached with five other (Turn to RAIL, Page 3)

Durham Has Lead Of 4 In Vote Recount

J. Carl Durham, Newell Republican, inched ahead to a lead of four votes over his Democratic challenger in the recount of Grant District votes for constable Friday at the Hancock County Courthouse in New Cumberland.

County Court finished recounting ballots from five of nine Grant precincts, with Durham gaining 12 votes to hike his previous lead of one to four over Glen H. Logston of Chester, Democrat.

After the official canvass two weeks ago, Durham, seeking reelection to a four-year term as Grant constable, showed 1,988 votes to 1,987 by Logston. With only four precincts still to be recounted, Durham has gained 12 votes for a new tally of 2,000, while Logston gained nine for a total of 1,996.

Police Chief Harold Davis of Chester, Republican, who is virtually assured of another four-year term as Grant constable, still leads the four-way field. Davis has gained six votes in the recount for a total of 2,083.

Still trailing the field is Charles Glendenning of Newell Heights, Democrat, who gained 14 votes for a new total of 1,811. Glendenning, however, is still 189 votes behind Durham.

The two top candidates in the four-way race receive four-year constable terms. Davis has led the field since the outset of the recount, while only a few votes have separated Durham and Logston. County Court must still rule on three challenged ballots cast in Precinct 4.

The recount is to continue Monday by County Court and the staff of Mrs. Mary Stewart, county clerk.

Heart Attack Fatal

Roy W. Howard, Noted
Journalist, Dies At 81

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy W. Howard, 81, a dynamic giant of American journalism for more than half a century, died Friday night of a heart attack.

He was chairman of the executive committee of Scripps-Howard newspapers, which he had helped build into a major newspaper group. He was the first managing editor, and later president, of United Press, the news service that is now United Press International.

Howard was stricken at his Park Avenue office. He died several hours later at Doctors Hospital.

He was an energetic man, full of sardonic wit and tart talk. "Never take yourself too seriously," was a rule he said he took early in life.

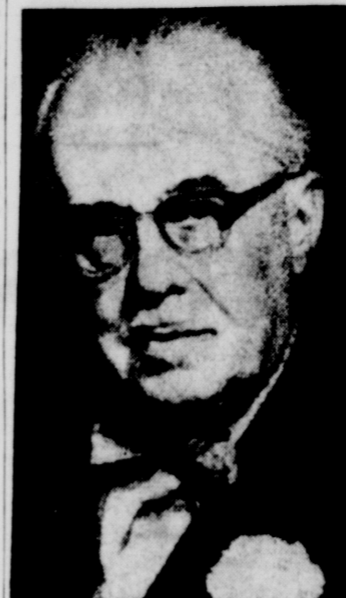

He joined the organization in 1905 when he went to work for the Cincinnati Post. Seven years later, at 29, he was directing head of United Press, which the late E. W. Scripps had established.

He was president of Scripps-Howard until his resignation in 1953. In 1960 he resigned as editor of the flagship of the group, the New York World-Telegram and the Sun. He continued as a director of the group's operating company.

Howard was born on New Year's Day in Gano, Ohio, near Cincinnati. His first job in newspaper work was as a carrier boy. Characteristically, he took on two routes, one morning paper and one evening paper.

During World War I Howard was a war correspondent and became the center of what he called "one of the most amazing journalistic contretemps in history."

It was the premature arstice report of Nov. 7, 1918, which sent Americans dancing in the streets four days before the actual armistice.

He had received the information in good faith and with permission to publish it from Adm. Henry B. Wilson, commander of U.S. naval forces in France. The admiral absolved him of any blame.

Howard said of his dispatch from Europe: "In my opinion, no real reporter could have or would have done otherwise in the circumstances."

Jack R. Howard, his son, is president of Scripps-Howard.

Howard also is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Albert C. Perkins of Rome, who is visiting in the United States.

Funeral services will be private and the body will be cremated, said a spokesman for the family.

Soviet Given
Ultimatum

By The Associated Press

Red China has delivered its ultimatum to the Soviet Union: plug up the holes in the Iron Curtain or the Communist movement will be irrevocably divided into two camps.

No other construction can be placed upon a 3,000-word statement from the theoretical journal Red Flag broadcast by Peking today. As matters stand now, it means the Soviet-Chinese dispute not only will continue, but probably will grow more intense.

Peking, in breaking a sullen silence on its reception of the new regime in the Soviet Union, probably has thrown a scare into the Communists of both Eastern and Western Europe.

Almost openly, Red Flag was asking for a continuing and thorough going purge in the U.S.S.R. to weed out all those Communists who supported Nikita Khrushchev's policies, and to return to Stalinism. This would be bad news for the Communist-ruled countries of Eastern Europe, and equally bad news for West European Reds for whom Stalinism had proved a heavy liability.

The Chinese statement was a recitation of Peking's terms for playing ball with Moscow within a unified world Communist movement, but the terms are just about as tough as they can be. Indeed, if the Chinese conditions were met, the present regime of party chief Leonid Brezhnev and premier Alexei Kosygin in the U.S.S.R. could not last long.

Peking heavily assailed virtually all the domestic, Communist party and foreign policies developed in the Khrushchev era.

In almost so many words, Peking demanded that Moscow reassess and reinstate Stalinism. It demanded an end to co-operation between the Soviet Union and the United States and virtually demanded abrogation of the Moscow treaty partially banning nuclear tests. It demanded that the Russian once again anathematize President Tito of Yugoslavia and toss him out of the Communist family. It demanded that policy of the Soviet 22nd Party Congress dealing with consumer goods development and the theoretical course of Soviet Communism be scrapped as hopelessly "revisionist."

And it demanded a purge in the U.S.S.R. This was implicit in its warning that there must be no "Khrushchevism without Khrushchev."

The Soviet Union, as matters stand now, can meet none of these terms. Meeting all of them is utterly out of the question. Even if there should be a successful new palace revolution in the Kremlin by an alliance of Stalinists and military men, it could hardly hope to go back all the way to Stalin after the past decade of Soviet social development.

Kidnap Of Girl

Hunted In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — About 20 detectives searched today for a five-week-old girl kidnaped Friday by a woman who beat the child's grandmother with a hammer.

Mrs. Zeno Mercedes said she recognized the kidnaper as a woman she had met two days before in the waiting room of a public health clinic. She said the woman had offered to sell her monogrammed diapers.

Another meeting will be held next Wednesday night at 8 at American Legion Post 70. Other organizations are requested to send representatives.

Those represented at the initial meeting were VFW Post 5647, Post 70, Knights of Columbus, Eagles Lodge 772, Sons of Italy and the volunteer fire department.

In the past all the organizations have conducted their own parties.

Insects AND YOUR HEALTH TAKE ACTION NOW

Cooler weather calls for more and more indoor living... living made more comfortable through the medium of furnaces and other indoor methods of keeping the home warm. Proper warmth makes a home more inviting to all who reside there... and is an open invitation to insects and other household pests. Now is the time to take strong, positive action to keep homes free of such dangerous, troublesome, unwanted annoyances.

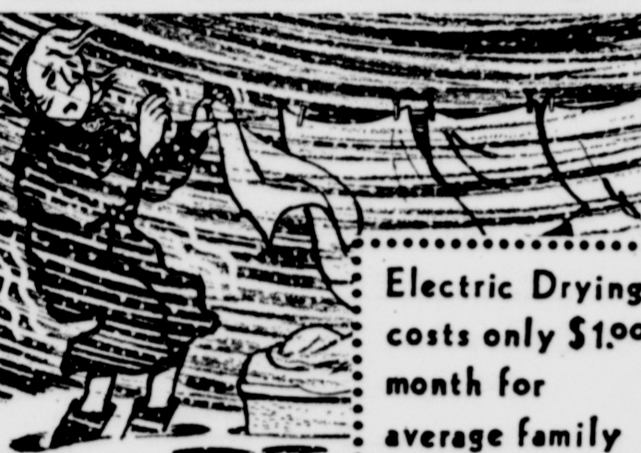

BE VERY CAREFUL

There are many things you can do to help keep your home free of rats, roaches and other pests, but... before you try these things, I suggest you call a reliable pest control company and get professional advice. There are many pesticides now being sold in retail stores that contain chemicals that are recommended for use only by qualified pest control operators. Perhaps you have read some of these notices in this paper. Your professional pest control operator can tell you what these chemicals are... and how best to use them. He can also show you how his services are more efficient, much safer, and most likely, just as economical as do it yourself methods and equipment.

LET US HELP

For your own safety, peace of mind, good house keeping, call FISH-ER CON-TROL today and let us come to your home at your convenience for a free home pest control inspection. We'll be happy to answer all of your questions... honestly and in non-technical language so that you will understand. Our phone number is FULTON 5-5720. We'll be happy to talk with you at any time.

85 At County Workshop Of School Staffs

Approximately 85 teachers and school officials attended the high school teachers' Workshop held Friday at Beaver Local School, according to Urton Anderson, high school consultant for the county schools and the workshop chairman.

The all-day affair was sponsored by the Columbiana County Education Association for teachers of the four rural high schools — Beaver, Crestview, Southern and United.

Teachers evaluated the program and results show that they are in favor of this type of workshop, Anderson said.

Panel participants in the forenoon included Joseph W. Driscoll, executive head of Crestview; John Pape, Beaver Local guidance director; Thomas M. Leek, principal, and Albert G. Leek, teacher and basketball coach, Southern Local. Mrs. Mary Leatherberry and Alice Satterthwaite, teachers at United Local.

Group meetings were held in the afternoon on athletics, drama, music, publications, art and vocational and clubs.

Robert Carter, CCEA workshop chairman, gave the introduction; Roy Cashdollar, executive head of Beaver Local district, gave the welcome, and County Supt. James L. McBride spoke briefly. The Rev. Frank Hare gave the invocation. Lunch was served in the Beaver High School cafeteria.

But there are signs of skepticism about early adjournment and one keeps hearing talk about Christmas in Columbus.

A miniature Christmas tree showed up last week on the desk of Rep. Terry Drake, R-Crawford, and press room clerks have hung a wreath on the wall. Next time you know the governor will show up in red suit and white beard.

May Pare Raises Everyone is looking for money in this session, including judges, county officials and legislators. Chances are most will get less than they're looking for.

Proposed raises for judges already have been slashed in a House committee and a subcommittee in raises suggested for officials in counties of 50,000 population or less. That takes in 49 of the 88 counties.

Taking A Look One subcommittee member, Rep. Bernice K. MacKenzie, D-Stark, did some checking on previous raises.

She said county officials received their last raise in 1961. When that increase is figured with the one proposed for 1965, means a jump of at least 40 per cent in county salaries in four years.

A raise of $2,500 to $3,000 a year for legislators may be tacked on the county pay bill. That would be either a 50 or 60 per cent increase in the lawmakers' salaries since 1957 when their pay was set at $5,000 a year.

LISBON — Approximately 175 persons attended the open house at Columbiana County's Sheltered Workshop on S. Market St. Friday, according to Robert Bycroft, county welfare director and head of the retarded children's program.

The workshop was established this fall to train young people who can no longer attend the Retarded Children's School at Elkton because they are over 21. The workshop program is designed to teach them how to work with their hands.

Workshop projects included mailing, assembly, sorting and packaging nuts and bolts, making bows for gift packages, making wreaths, rag cutting and operating a pet shop. The students take care of animals, birds and fish and sell all kinds of pet supplies.

Other persons also attended the Retarded Children's School at Elkton during the day, Bycroft said.

fifths vote required for constitutional amendments without help from across the aisle. They don't need that help now.

And the new Senate, with 16 Republicans and 16 Democrats, is almost certain to become the site of some legislative chaos.

Senate Close It will take 17 votes to pass a bill in the Senate and 20 to put an amendment on the ballot. And although Republican Lt. Gov. John W. Brown is presiding officer and has clear authority to cast the tie-breaking vote in organizing the Senate, it may take a court decision to determine whether he can break a deadlock on a bill.

Political dealing is not unique in the Senate, however, and Rhodes is no rookie when it comes to the fine art of political persuasion. He may be able to get much of what he wants despite the potential Democratic roadblock. But he's taking no chances.

Still, there are many items on the agenda now which are neither controversial nor pressing. Some lawmakers believe these proposals should be taken up in regular session when there is less danger that haste will produce a bad law or derail a good one.

Until Christmas? With such politically provocative subjects as congressional redistricting and legislative reapportionment before it, no one is certain just when the 105th Assembly will go home for keeps.

Election Test In Italy

More than 30 million Italians will elect municipal councils in most of Italy's 8,000 cities and towns Sunday.

The vote shapes up as a test of the center-left coalition Premier Aldo Moro precariously put together last August. It is viewed as Italy's biggest political event since the national elections in April 1963. Moro formed his first "opening to the left" coalition on Dec. 17, 1963. Under the present formula, the Christian Democrats, largest and most potent political party, are allied with Vice Premier Pietro Nenni's Left-wing Socialists and with the Social Democrats and the Republicans, two more moderate leftist groups.

The prediction is that the coalition will fall apart if any one of the parties forming it loses a considerable segment of the popular vote.

Left-wing Socialists, formerly allied with the Communists — Italy's second largest party and the largest Communist party in Western Europe — will be under severe attack.

The Communists have their own troubles. Outraged by the overthrow of Khrushchev, they hastily sent a delegation to Moscow.

The Italian Episcopal Conference, with Pope Paul VI participating as bishop of Rome, on Nov. 8 warned Italian voters that communism is "a grave danger for life and for religious and civil liberties." Failure of Pope John XXIII to issue a strong anti-Communist statement prior to the elections in April 1963 was given as one of the reasons for big Communist gains in the popular vote. Communists in the municipal elections of four years ago got close to 25 per cent of the popular vote.

Success of the Moro government is important to the United States. The foundation of Italian policy since World War II has been firm commitment to Western political and economic unity. Within the Atlantic Alliance Italy's has been a steady voice of reason. A principal aim of Italy's Communists is to neutralize Italy as a NATO partner.

Change In Political Climate

In the massive popular remorse after President Kennedy's assassination a year ago, one theme was heard oftener than any other.

Americans of good will and calm judgment implored their fellowmen to shun the immorality that had reached a tragic climax on a public street in Dallas. Millions of people who had given no thought before to the possible consequences of hatred promised themselves to practice restraint in their speech and action.

It was as though the nation, having witnessed first-hand the consequences of hatred in the murder of President Kennedy and the wounding of Gov. Connolly of Texas, had made a mass renunciation of political extremism.

This was an early reaction. It subsided and was not thought of consciously any more. But it was too powerful in its initial stage to have lacked lasting strength. It has been a strong influence in the thoughts of many throughout the year. It continues to influence both subconscious and conscious thought.

It surely must have been accountable for the popularity of President Johnson's "centrist" position in this year's national election.

It was prominent in the thoughts of Americans who deplored excesses of the presidential campaign that had the net effect of belittling both contenders for the country's highest public office.

In Dallas, itself, and generally throughout Texas, the reaction against immorality has brought about a marked change in the political climate. The wild extremism that had characterized partisan politics in many places has been tempered by a mood of reconcilability.

It is as though the tragedy of President Kennedy's death had prompted atonement for past political excesses. If political passion could prompt one among us to commit murder, it might happen to any of us.

DeGaulle Vs. United States

President Charles de Gaulle of France observes his 74th birthday Sunday.

At an age when most men are content to conserve their energies and entertain intimations of immortality, De Gaulle is setting the stage for perhaps the greatest drama of post-war Europe. He is hinting that France may pull out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

De Gaulle also proposes to take France out of the European Common Market unless West Germany agrees by Dec. 15 on fixing a timetable for a common cereal price. Either of these threats is negotiable. Together, they put the French President in a fine position to whip-saw West Germany, and, to a lesser extent, the United States.

The France of Charles de Gaulle is in the words of her own foreign minister, a "difficult ally." The extent of the "difficultness" might be measured in terms of Gaullist policy that is at best tangential and at worst contradictory to the policies of his Western allies.

De Gaulle favors European unity only when it strengthens Europe against the United States. France has just concluded a five-year trade agreement with the Soviet Union providing long-term credits for Russians.

He joins the Russians in supporting a neutralist policy in Southeast Asia and opposing American prosecution of the war in South Viet Nam. France recognizes Red China and will ask its former colonies to back Red China for admission to the United Nations.

Norman Thomas Should Know

Norman Thomas on his 80th birthday says he is disappointed because socialism has made no headway in the United States.

Mr. Thomas made his sixth and last run for the presidency in 1948, picking up a scattering of support each time for his Socialist party candidacy but never making a solid impact on the electorate.

His chief success was in publicizing his skill as a lecturer. It became fashionable to listen to the chief spokesman for socialism tell about his views of the body politic and his hopes for its future.

But contrary to the opinion of those who believe the United States is rushing pell-mell into socialism, the foremost U.S. socialist of the 20th century feels his crusade has been a failure.

It suggests a need for a meeting of minds on an all-weather definition of socialism — one that would have universal acceptance. No such definition now exists.

The essential requirement for classical socialism is government ownership of the means of production and distribution. This is what Norman Thomas means when he talks about socialism.

But what commonly is meant by other Americans who talk about it is social welfare, which has no connection with doctrinaire socialism. Public ownership of railroads and transportation is doctrinaire socialism, as is public ownership of, say, the steel industry.

Means to relieve hunger, poverty and disease are social welfare.

Somehow in the United States the two ideas grew intermingled in public debate. There is only a distant relationship, as America's best-known socialist well knows.

By Truman Twill

and times would be better off if they would let us rely on our own sense and judgment.

Granted that it is important for ships at sea and planes in the air to have up-to-date information about the weather, it cannot be granted that this has anything to do with the kind of forecasting that has turned weather into saleable guesswork.

What the weather actually at any given moment is has nothing to do with guessing what the weather is going to be at the spot where you will be half a day later. One is scientific observation. The other is speculation.

When this speculation causes people to form judgments that would not otherwise be formed and when these judgments have the effect of misleading them, it cannot be condoned.

When a weather speller tells me the weather is going to be thus and so when my own observation tells me it's going to be something else, I trust myself.

And when a pollster tells me an election is going to be thus and so, against my own judgment that it is going to be nothing of the kind, I put my judgment first.

If his splicing and my judgment coincide, of course, I take that as a sign we're both going to be right.

Fighting With His Feet

Peace Corps Seeks Working Men

By Victor Riesel

PITTSBURGH — Downtown in this iron city seems a long way off from the tiny hamlet at the edge of monkey territory in up country Senegal, Africa, where I stopped my L and rover this summer.

Three crew-cut young men came over to us from the well they had been digging in the hundred degree heat. Why were they going a hundred feet down in the noonday heat? The answer was simple and swift. They were U.S. Peace Corps men. They were there to help a people who had never had running water — a people whose young men had fought for freedom in many a war.

The Peace Corps men said: We want them to know the Americans are their friends. What now ties Pittsburgh to the Senegal hamlet north of the French city of Thies? The link is a relatively new Blue Collar recruiting drive — the work-program to bring America's skilled factory and construction workers to the new world of underdeveloped nations.

IN THE PAST, the Peace Corps cadres had been made up of young college men such as my friends in Senegal. Now the Corps wants working men. There is no age limit, no educational minimum, no college degrees as a requirement, just the skills of men who man America's big mills and construction projects.

This drive has the cooperation of such men as Walter Reuther, head of the militant United Auto Workers Union, and the chief executives of such corporations as General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, American Motors, Caterpillar and soon the aircraft and steel industry.

Within a few days, Dave Burgess, a veteran foreign service officer who is an "old" Asian hand, will drop in to see Dave McDonald, president of the United Steel Workers of America, at its national headquarters here.

Burgess, who already has conferred with Conrad Cooper, vice president of U.S. Steel and chief of the steel industry's joint bargaining team, wants the industry to insert the new skilled workers Peace Corps clause in the new steel industry contract when it is signed next year.

WITH THE MUTUAL agreement of Reuther and the industrial relations vice presidents of the major auto companies, the clause was written into the contract recently negotiated in that industry.

The clause guarantees leaves of absence for those working men who want to go to South America, Africa or Asia — anywhere from Lima, Peru, to the Himalaya nation of Nepal — to work and even teach. The clause guarantees re-employment, seniority and pension rights and credit even to those who are going through apprentice training if they volunteer for Peace Corps service.

The corps needs such practical men. Out of the 10,000 now serving in 46 countries, only 200 have been men with professional skills in their hands.

Now the Latin lands are asking for some 400 out of our factories and building and construction trades. They want men who can put roofs on houses, build schools, wire a community center, fix a truck, handle a garage, pour concrete and make things out of lumber.

GUINEA, on the West Coast of Africa, where I've just been, needs some 40 garage mechanics. Tunisia wants men who can repair buses and trucks and maintain all types of machines and agricultural implements.

The Malaysian government, whose capital, Kuala Lumpur, is hardly a hardship post, is asking for 50 men who can teach vocational skills.

My friends in the government of Ethiopia's King of Kings, his imperial majesty Emperor Haile Selassie, the best friend America has on the African continent, need machinists.

Nigeria, which the Sino-Soviet bloc drools over because of its 55 million people, and whose big city traffic jams prove its modernity, wants all the mechanics it can get.

So the Peace Corps has talked to management and labor. It has set up a series of teams which go right onto the factory floor, or cafeteria or some big office and talk to shop stewards and middle management people.

The drive started at Mack Truck in Hagerstown, Md. In Peoria recently Burgess and some of his colleagues made 38 speeches in some 24 hours at the Caterpillar plant and report they came away with 84 applicants.

MARRIED COUPLES with no dependents under 18 are welcomed. The husband will handle the machinery. The wife will teach home economics or help villagers. The couples are first trained for several months in the language and methods of adaptation to the new, far-off home.

At the end of the two-year stint, the couple will have $3,600 — before taxes — since all expenses are paid. And they will have gained experience needed by many American firms now beginning to move into the new lands.

That's why Pittsburgh is not as far from Dakar, Senegal, after all.

Behind The FBI Furor

By David Lawrence

Agency Faces Variety Of Problems

On the surface, it may look as if the current controversy between J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, and Martin Luther King, Jr., head of a leading Negro organization, merely concerns a question of veracity about incidents in Albany, Ga., in connection with the handling of complaints by Negroes and "civil rights" workers in that city, but the issue goes deeper. It involves the effort of organized groups to pressure governmental agencies into taking action to meet protests based on passion and emotional feelings, rather than on the rules of law which require substantial evidence before arrests can be made.

The effort to convert the FBI into a political agency is not new. It has been evident in the activities of other pressure groups from time to time. Sooner or later, the FBI will have to be made an agency separate from the Department of Justice, unless the department itself becomes an independent agency.

When it comes to the operations of the law, the citizens expect enforcement to be fair and impartial. The FBI cannot arrest a person merely on suspicion unless there is evidence to support such action. There are penalties for making false arrests.

A CASE which illustrates the caution that the FBI exercises can be cited in connection with the investigation of the murder of three civil rights workers in Mississippi a few months ago.

The FBI, according to information which has been given out by high officials, has collected in that case certain information of an incriminating nature. But the making of arrests has been deferred in order to gather data which could make it possible to obtain convictions.

Law enforcement is not merely a matter of using the FBI as a national police force such as is found in totalitarian countries. The federal courts have in recent years, for example, released prisoners on the ground that they were improperly interrogated before they were arraigned.

Under the existing circumstances, the investigative agencies of the government feel that they must be very cautious and careful before they make arrests. This will not satisfy those who think that certain suspects should be promptly arrested and tried.

It's small wonder that J. Edgar Hoover seemed to give vent to impatience when he talked to a group of women reporters on the general subject of law enforcement.

MR. HOOVER was particularly bitter about some of the activities of the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. The FBI chief said that Mr. King had told members of his organization not to report acts of violence to the FBI in Albany, Ga., because the agents there are all Southerners and would not do anything about such complaints.

Mr. Hoover's reply was that the majority of FBI agents in the South are Northerners, and that four of the five agents in Albany were born in the North. The FBI director conceded that there have been difficulties with local authorities, some of whom, due to their prejudices, are lax in law enforcement involving violations of civil rights. But the FBI has no authority over the state and local police, and has to depend on their voluntary cooperation.

In cases where the local police cannot be relied upon, the FBI may increase its forces. This does not mean that it can always gather enough evidence to bring a case against all persons suspected of violating civil rights.

Somewhat the same dilemma confronts the FBI in connection with the measures that might have been taken to protect the late President Kennedy against assassination.

IT'S NATURAL for the FBI director to resent the criticism of his agency made in the report of the Warren Commission.

As Mr. Hoover told his press conference, it's impossible to take out of circulation "every individual who might threaten the safety of the president" when the chief executive makes a public appearance, especially when he rides down city streets in an open automobile.

The implication that somehow the FBI was responsible for the failure to prevent Lee Harvey Oswald from shooting Mr. Kennedy is resented by the FBI men who know the facts.

The truth is that the FBI and Secret Service combined do not have sufficient personnel to carry out the kind of precautions which, the Warren Commission report intimated, might have been taken in Dallas.

The same thing applies to civil rights. The federal government has no investigative force big enough to detect all the civil rights violations that are going on. Nor does it have enough enforcement agencies to prepare cases against those who violate the law.

Unless a huge national police force is built, or until certain cases can be prosecuted which will furnish an example to the nation and have a deterrent effect, it's not likely that the FBI, by merely making a number of arrests without ample evidence, will be able to solve the major problems of law enforcement.

Boost For States

By Harry Kelly

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, looking for ways to keep the economy purring, has under study a proposal to give the states a fixed share of the federal income tax collections.

The plan, as sketched out by one of the President's "Great Society" task forces, is reported to have had its first airing recently at the White House.

But the indications are that it's in for a lot of hot and heavy debate — in the various executive agencies, as well as in Congress, if it gets there.

Purpose of the idea, originally presented by Dr. Walter W. Heller, who just stepped out as chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, is two-fold: To help the pocket-pinch and burdened states and to add more fuel to the national economy when the accelerating effects of this year's tax cut fades.

Most of the states with growing populations and painful education, welfare and urban problems, are prowling in every direction for more money.

State debt, according to Tax Foundation Inc., has more than quadrupled since 1950, rising from $5 billion to $23 billion at the end of fiscal 1963.

Thirty-five of the 47 state legislatures meeting last year acted to increase revenues — by enacting new taxes, raising rates or broadening the bases.

So where to turn? It was Heller who sold the Kennedy-Johnson administration on the idea that taxes can be a drag on the economy even though they weren't high enough to balance the budget, and that a reduction would stimulate business, bring in more revenue and eventually balance the budget.

Arguing from this thesis, he proposed that Uncle Sam automatically return to the states each year a fixed percentage of the income tax collections to do with as each state saw fit.

This, it was contended, would help state and local governments with their massive financial troubles without Washington getting involved more deeply and would also put the money to work in the economy.

But there's a rub. Many in Washington question the idea of turning over federal funds without any strings — without thus-and-so directions on how the money should be spent.

There are a host of other problems. One that could set off a turmoil in Congress is how the money should be cut up. On a strictly per capita basis, where the biggest states would get the biggest share, or should there be a distinction in allocation between the relatively rich and relatively poor states?

All in all, this could be the most controversial of all the plans presented to the President for charting the course of his administration.

Guest Of Colloquium Club Speaks On Early City Ware

Atty. William H. Vodrey Jr. was guest speaker for the meeting of the Colloquium Study Club Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Earl Applegate of Oliver St.

Discussing the development of ceramics in East Liverpool, he used Lotus and Belek ware as examples. He traced the origin of the now nationally famous Lotus Ware, declaring it is one of East Liverpool's chief claims to fame. It was made in the early Knowles, Taylor & Knowles Pottery Co., built in 1887 by Joshua Poole, who came from Ireland. The plant burned to the ground in 1889 and was rebuilt by the Taylor family in 1890.

Lotus Ware was made in the period of 1890 to 1895. The late Will Blake worked with Henry Schmitt of Germany, who had charge of the decorating.

Bone china replaced the formula used in the manufacture of Belek Ware, which was made for only two years.

In 1893, Lotus Ware took first prize at the Columbian Exposition at Chicago. After World War II, interest in the ware was revived among collectors and it sold at $5 a piece. A large collection is now on sale at the Park Burnett Gallery in New York City with prices ranging from $300 to $1,500.

The ware was discontinued because of the high cost of production. The largest local collections are at the Carnegie Museum and those of Mrs. William Horger of Ohio Ave., Mrs. Viva Hune Schell of Chester and Max Gard of Lisbon.

Refreshments were served 28 at a buffet table covered with a gold cloth and centered with an arrangement of bronze and yellow mums accented with wheat. Lighted tapers in silver candelabra completed the setting. Mrs. Lawrence Black poured at the silver service.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Ray Alley, Mrs. Andrew Myers Jr. and Mrs. Pugh, associate hostesses. Mrs. Vodrey Jr. was a guest.

Bishop Mussio To Return; Vatican Council Nears End

By BISHOP MUSSIO
Of Steubenville Diocese

The day for the closing of this third session of the Vatican Council is almost here. I am tired, but it is a good sort of tiredness that comes from a labor not in vain.

In retrospect, here are my observations on this third session. First, I look upon this session as a conclusive proof that the Conciliar Fathers are fully determined to do something positive in Christian service for this world of ours.

That spirit shown at the beginning of the Council has now proven to be real, and not a flash-in-the-pan enthusiasm.

Before this session began, and even in its first days, there were those who believed that the bishops would cool down, change their attitude, get "practical" in the sense of doing nothing.

They believed wrong, because the bishops are convinced that they have a job to do and were going to do it if it took 50 years.

Second, I believe the ecumenical spirit of self-appraisal, understanding and dialogue is in full swing. As more and more of the basic ideas and ideals of ecumenism become clearer, they are practiced with greater and more lasting effects.

There is a continual interchange of ideas, a dialogue on the highest plateau of charity and thought existing between the Conciliar Fathers and the Observers from the other churches.

Something else has greatly encouraged me in this third session. There exists a certain impatience with the mere emotional, the hollow oratorical, the long-winded nothingness of some of the speeches.

The bishops want definite ideas, frank expression, practical applications to definite problems. If the schema doesn't do the job according to these standards, then it is returned to committee.

We want to do what Pope John asked for and what Pope Paul is striving to bring to completion.

We are disappointed that the schemas on religious liberty and on the Jews have not come up for vote. The delay is because we will not accept a watered-down, emaciated, eviscerated form of what was, at first, a strong statement of principle.

We have sent these schemas back with definite instructions to give them the original strong and clear statements. We may have to wait a while longer, but this kind of delay means real progress.

The birth control question must be answered. It is a difficult question, requiring expert study, consultation and clear, practical solutions. The fundamental principles which alone can give direction to solving the "pill problem" must come from the very top; Pope Paul has reserved this study to himself. I am certain this problem will be given prime attention and our people will receive a clear and unequivocal directive.

The problems are great which confront the Council Fathers.

Five years ago many despaired of ever having these problems given a hearing before the bishops of the world. The fact that we are considering them today shows that we must have confidence that the Holy Spirit is truly working in this Council.

Bishop Mussio was scheduled to leave Rome and is due at Greater Pittsburgh Airport late Sunday en route back to Steubenville.

Adventists Hold Citywide Appeal

Members of the East Liverpool Seventh-day Adventist Church are conducting the annual citywide World Missions appeal, which will continue through December.

Funds from the "house-to-house" canvass will go toward extending welfare, disaster relief and educational services at home, and to supplement the church's widespread medical and educational ministry in 196 countries.

The church operates 2,762 health and welfare units in addition to 239 medical units around the world. All activities are co-ordinated with the master plans of civil authorities. The drive has been conducted annually for 61 years.

Area Counts Its Blessings

The material and spiritual aspects of life in the Tri-State District in November 1964 and the prospects for the year ahead justify a devout expression of the heart for Thanksgiving Day.

Not only the economic well-being of most of the area, but a new sense of progress in our communities brings home an awareness of the bounties of America and the Ohio Valley.

The threat to individual freedoms across the world, the danger of atomic war, the spread of crime, the decline of moral standards—all remain a serious concern for Americans today.

But the blessings of democracy, the continuing strength of our nation, the enduring force of our churches, the hope resting in our young people are the solid pillars for which we must give thanks and on which we must face the future.

Industry and business across the Tri-State area are in welcome high stages of activity, and the outlook for 1965 is promising.

VARIOUS construction projects under way or planned show confidence in the future, and will pave the way to further development.

cible Steel Co. expansion solidifies the economic promise for that firm, a vital part of district economy.

A quickening of community enterprise and a growth of self confidence is evident on many fronts, from formation of a new Chamber of Commerce at Lisbon to intensified work on East Liverpool's comprehensive plan.

East Liverpool, in particular, is demonstrating a new outlook on community advancement, as shown in passage of a school bond issue, in establishment of new businesses, in a brightening and modernization of the downtown and neighborhood areas.

But we have more than material gains for which to be thankful.

"We are thankful for our homes, large or small," comments the Rev. Charles Haddock of the First United Presbyterian Church of Newell.

"They offer each of us protection from the weather, they give us the comfort, fellowship, joy and love of the folks who live in them."

"We are thankful for the beauty of our valley, revealed from vantage points in Ohio and West Virginia. Truly we can apply the words of the Psalmist—'I lift up my eyes to the hills. From whence does my help come? My help comes from the Lord, who made heaven and earth.'"

A Thanksgiving Snowfall Is Portrayed In This Unfinished Hans Hacker Painting Of A Fredericktown Scene.

Fr. Adelbert Williams of St. Christine Catholic Church at Industry points out Thanksgiving was originally a holiday with deeply religious motivation.

IT WAS A day when the early settlers paused to thank God for their good harvest, safety from their enemies, continued health, freedom and the ability to pass this rich inheritance on to posterity."

"Today our motives for Thanksgiving should have even greater religious significance than for our forefathers."

"We, too, should be grateful for the blessing of freedom, for a government free from tyranny and for a nation which can look forward to the future envisioned by the early pioneers where men are equal, where war and poverty will no longer be specters haunting the innocent, where diversified industry and the enterprise of men can provide for a dignified life for all the citizens."

Fr. Williams said, "With the grace of God, the ideals and hopes of our forefathers will be achieved."

Rev. John Clark of the First Methodist Church of East Liverpool says, "We are thankful for the blessings of highways, river, for beautiful hills and natural resources, for churches where the Gospel that frees and renews men's souls is preached."

"But the real spirit of Thanksgiving is that which says 'I can and will be thankful to a good God for what I have, even though these goods cannot be measured much in worldly value.'"

"It is the spirit which acknowledges God as the source of all good and perfect gifts, it is gratitude in the face of adversity, it is the spirit of a life given over to thanksgiving for spiritual treasures without end."

For all the blessings of the year,
For all the friends we hold so dear,
For peace of earth, both far and near,
We thank thee, Lord.

For life and health, those common things,
Which every day and hour brings,
For home, where our affection clings,
We thank thee, Lord.

You And The Law

Charlie had been in an automobile accident and felt that he should be able to recover damages from the driver of the other car.

He went to see lawyer Brown, and, in the course of telling Brown his story, it developed that the driver of the other car was insured by a company represented by Brown.

As soon as Brown learned this fact, he stopped Charlie from telling him any more about the case and explained that he could not represent him. Brown pointed out that the "conflicting interest" resulting from his representation of the insurance company prevented him from representing Charlie.

He said he owed it to Charlie not to hear anything from him which he might use against him if the matter were taken to court.

THE SITUATION outlined above illustrates one of the basic principles in the ethics of a lawyer, namely, that he cannot represent "conflicting interests." Basically, this is but the lawyer's way of phrasing the old axiom that a man cannot serve two masters.

A lawyer's duty is to give his full and complete efforts to his client and he cannot do that if there is a conflict between the interests of two of them. The reasoning behind this rule is that a lawyer should not appear in court representing both sides of a controversy.

If both Charlie and the insurance company are regular clients of Brown, then it is Brown's duty to refuse to represent either one of them in case of litigation between the two.

If Brown is one of a group of lawyers practicing together as a partnership, then he must be careful not only of avoiding a conflict of interest between the clients he is personally serving, but between his clients and other clients of the partnership as well.

As far as Brown is concerned in determining whether there is a conflict of interest, any client of his partner is his client, and vice versa.

THERE ARE, of course, cases where a lawyer may represent more than one of the parties to the same transaction without violating the rule of professional conduct against serving interests which conflict.

Such a situation might develop where two old clients of the same lawyer were purchasing and selling a piece of property. If both clients so desired and understood, the lawyer might, with complete propriety, look after the interests of both in such a transaction.

Generally, however, the lawyer will be very careful to scrutinize such situations. Therefore, if a lawyer should tell you that he cannot represent you because he already represents "conflicting interests," remember that he is only seeking to protect your interests.

This article is based upon the law of Ohio. It is not intended to advise anyone on a specific problem. No person should ever attempt to apply or interpret any law without the advice of a lawyer.

Who's Who In World Of Students

Among the active student leaders at David Anderson High School at Lisbon is Jodine Pilmer, 17-year-old senior.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pilmer of 510 W. Chestnut St., she has been in the high school band for four years, playing clarinet in the concert unit and the bells in the marching group.

She is also accompanist for the school chorus and organist at the Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Vice president of the senior class, Jodine is editor of the school paper, member of Quill and Scroll, secretary of the Y-Teens and a member of the Leaders Club.

She has attained the honor roll with an A average or better for four years.

Following graduation, Jodine plans to major in music at Westminster College at New Wilmington, Pa.

As a person becomes older, scientific studies show that all the units of time — minutes, hours, days, months, years — pass more and more quickly—the reason for this being that a person keeps placing a higher value on time.

Stamps In The News

To commemorate the second anniversary of the Treaty of Friendship between the governments of New Zealand and Western Samoa, the latter has issued four new stamps. The one pence ochre, 8 pence deep blue, 2 shilling olive green and 3 shilling maroon are of identical design showing the ceremonial signing of the treaty between the New Zealand High Commissioner and the Samoan Prime Minister. It took place at Valine, the home of Robert Louis Stevenson.

The Yemen Arab Republic has issued a set of five new stamps to honor the inauguration of Sana International Airport. The two lower values show a jet plane flying over the airport. Other planes are lined up near the runways. The next two higher values depict a jet flying over Yemen. The highest value is an airmail and features a plane over the airport while another is ready for takeoff. The Yemen Arab Republic also issued two new stamps commemorating the 10th anniversary of the Arab Postal Union.

Colombia has issued a 20 centavo airmail stamp honoring Eleanor Roosevelt and marking the 15th anniversary of the Declaration of Human Rights with which she was closely connected. Special first-day covers issued in Colombia, and available at your local stamp dealer, show the United Nations building in New York and a special inscription below.

The British islands of Trinidad and Tobago have honored the 50th anniversary of their Girl Guides by issuing three new stamps. The 6 cents red, 25 cents deep blue and the 35 cents green and black illustrate the Girl Guides insignia, the dates 1914-1964 and the words "Golden Jubilee." A vignette portrait of Queen Elizabeth appears on each stamp.

Several new stamps have been issued by Brazil. One stamp honors the visit to Brazil by the president of Senegal. Another stamp commemorates the 400th birthday of Rio de Janeiro. A third stamp marks the visit of Gen. Charles de Gaulle of France. A fourth stamp pays tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy. A second

Spadea Designer Pattern

For the gayest, loveliest time of the year, Ceil Chapman presents this charming princess, happily destined to reign over this season's gala evenings and many to follow.

All shape and beautiful substance, the romantic silhouette is carved with long seams that figure closely through the bodice then round out into a luxurious pouf of skirting. The graceful neckline swept enchantingly low on the shoulders, tips a brief covering over the arms.

For dinner, the theatre, a night club or a party later (and with dancing included, we hope), choose elegant fabric such as velvet, or a stiffish one such as brocade, peau de soie, taffeta or polished cotton. This pattern is available in Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear sizes for three figure types. Study charts for size best suited for you and then select your correct size.

Richard Heidel displays a vase made by Patterson Bros. of Wells-ville, and a bread plate by William Brunt Jr. of East Liverpool. At his feet are a door stop by N. U. Walker Co. and a pitcher by Goodwin Bros.

Mrs. Mary Green, left, holds a teapot by Cartwright Bros. and Mrs. Heidel displays a fruit bowl produced around 1900 by the Wells-ville China Co.

Wellsville pottery work represented here includes Morley's Majolica pitcher beside the vase in the upper right corner, and Sterling China Co.'s Waldorf-Astoria pattern in the center foreground.

Pottery Collection Grows

By CHARLES CRONIN

Pieces of antique pottery produced in this area by more than 60 concerns are finding their way into the elaborate collection of a Pleasant Heights steelworker who could be rated a professional when it comes to hobbies.

The mission of Richard Heidel of 1233 Cora St. is to assemble a collection of pottery that would be representative in every respect of East Liverpool area's pioneer potteries.

The undertaking is indeed painstaking and time consuming. The pottery Heidel has collected to date represents five to six years work, and in his own words, he has "begged and borrowed" to launch his latest hobby on a strong start.

A roll turner leader of 31 years experience at Crucible Steel Co. in Midland, Heidel's interests have run the gamut from dahlias and the Sandy-Beaver Canal to stone bridges and pottery.

HIS WORK as a historian has been efficient, and he proved his skill in growing dahlias by winning the sweepstakes prize five years running in local shows. Heidel compiled a series of color slides of the old canal in that study, and also has slides of stone-arch bridges in his historical bookcase.

Assembling a collection of historical pottery, however, represents a far greater challenge than his other hobbies.

Many growers give away prize-winning dahlias after shows and grow others the following season. Stone bridges and the Sandy-Beaver Canal pose no problems in study or pictures.

But hardly anyone, especially in the East Liverpool area where the early pottery industry thrived, is anxious to give away or even sell antique china. Still, Heidel has samples from 50 potteries, not all of A-1 quality.

Many friends helped start his collection by lending some of their irreplaceable ware. The entire collection was assembled for the first time last week when the Bethia Southwick Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Feustel of Henry Ave.

THE DISPLAY was unique, complemented by the valuable collection of Mr. Feustel, who was a skilled gilder and decorator at many early potteries in this area as a youth.

Mr. Feustel's collection is not large, but the octogenarian possesses some of the rarest pieces of china ever made in East Liverpool.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. Green of Calcutta have also shared in helping Heidel make progress towards his goal.

Perhaps the favorite piece of Heidel is a semi-vitreous porcelain punch bowl he has owned for 25 years. Made at the extinct Knowles, Taylor and Knowles Pottery, the bowl is resplendent inside with a colorful hunting scene, and the pedestal bottom glistens with colors of the rainbow.

Another beauty is a bud vase from the same concern, featuring a sailboat scene painted by Alf Potter, a designer of note in his time, whose brush is well-known locally.

A RECLINING lion door stop is part of Heidel's collection. Made at N. U. Walker's local pottery, it was given Heidel by Mrs. Eunice Hogenfield, who said it was a gift from her first beau.

Of later origin is a place setting from the D. E. McNicol pottery, and a tureen from Taylor, Smith & Lee, forerunner of Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co.

Among Heidel's rarer pieces is Rockingham ware from the ancient Sprucevale pottery. A part of the collection is entirely of Wellsville origin, from early to modern.

Heidel realizes he has a long way to go to assemble a collection that would be truly representative of the early pottery industry here. Ware from the Sebring pottery (1887) has escaped his eye thus far, but he will continue the search.

Feustel started in the pottery industry when only 14 years old and rose to foreman. He learned quickly at the Wallace & Shetland Pottery on River Rd., and moved on to the Sebring Pottery on 2nd St., accepted a raise of 50 cents a day to leave for K. T. & K., and also worked at the Thompson Pottery, Sebring Pottery, and Sterling China Co. in Wellsville.

THE PRIZES in Feustel's collection are a Lotus ware teapot, cream and sugar bowl made at K. T. & K. by him at the age of 16. Lotus ware, among the most beautiful pottery anywhere, is now in a status by itself, simply a collector's item. The pieces owned by Feustel are pink.

Perhaps just as valuable are two teacups and saucers in colors of pink, gold and white, with flowers hand-painted by the owner's brother-in-law at Laughlin's on River Rd. Known as the original Laughlin fine china, these pieces are the only ones remaining, Feustel says.

Of great beauty is a vase made at Sebring China Co. The exterior features a continuous gold line over maroon.

Another rarity is his mustache cup and matching saucer produced at K. T. & K.

DESIGNS BY Walter DeVile, prominent artist here, mark many pieces in the Feustel collection. He also owns many framed paintings by the artist. DeVile chose birds as subjects for many paintings on plates.

Mr. and Mrs. Green list Rockingham brown ware from Sprucevale, a calendar plate from the East End pottery, and a decorated soap dish from K. T. & K. among their favorite pieces.

Because of the problem of transporting the hundreds of pieces in his collection and adding to the risks of breakage, Heidel feels reluctant to stage public showings on a large scale.

Heidel's collection will no doubt take on added merit as he continues searching attics, cellars and barns for pottery. He has even discovered a piece or two discarded under a porch.

At this point, however, his collection cannot compare in any respect — size, quality, or authenticity — to that of the East Liverpool Historical Society.

ONE YARDSTICK of the status of any museum is the professional opinions expressed by curators elsewhere. In this respect, the Historical Society's museum in the upstairs of Carnegie Library may stand in a class by itself.

The museum has drawn praise from far-ranging points on its pottery collection, petroglyphs and historical records. It was the only museum invited to loan items to the Ford Museum in Dearborn, Mich., for a display showing the evolution of the pottery industry in the Northwest Territory, attesting to its lofty status among experts in the field.

The society owns more than 3,000 pieces of antique pottery, most of it donated by descendants of the original families who owned local potteries. The collection, representing 60 years work, is almost perfect, according to Harold B. Barth, curator, and one of the foremost students on the city's pottery history.

A total of 10,000 visitors, the majority from out-of-town, have marveled at the antique pottery, paintings and records at the museum this year.

These pieces surrounding the punchbowl in the center are among Heidel's favorites. Reading clockwise from extreme left, they are: black Croxall teapot, D. E. McNicol teacup and saucer, Lotus ware vase, Sevres tureen, Taylor, Smith & Lee tureen, Lotus ware vase, bud vase painted by Alf Potter, and Croxall teapot. In the front are clay tools from the Sprucevale pottery.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Feustel show their valuable collection of antique pottery. Three vessels of pink lotus ware can be seen nearest the camera, while in the background are hand-painted plates and vases.

Elks Sponsor Daily Series On 'America'

Elks Lodge 258 is participating in the observance of "Know Your America Week," beginning Sunday with various aspects to be emphasized each day.

The Order of Elks in over 200 cities is affiliated with the All-American Conference to Combat Communism, which is sponsoring the nationwide observance. The conference is composed of 40 national, fraternal, veterans and service groups.

The lodge said Mayor Merrill Hall of East Liverpool, Mayor Harry Abrams of Chester and Mayor Eli Corak of Midland have proclaimed the observance for their respective communities and schools and pastors of the Tri-State area have been asked to participate.

The days of the week have been designated as follows: Sunday, churches, "Faiths By Which We Live;" Monday, government, "Freedom Under Law;" Tuesday, citizenship, "Our Rights and Responsibilities;" Wednesday, education, "The Schools Our Children Attend;" Thursday, Thanksgiving, "Consider the Blessings of Freedom;" Friday, labor-management, "The Jobs at Which We Work;" and Saturday, synagogues, "The Faiths By Which We Live."

Edward B. Massey, exalted ruler, and Gale W. Laughlin, Americanism chairman of the lodge, urged residents to observe the week.

East Ohio Gas Given Rate Hike

LISBON — Columbiana County customers of the East Ohio Gas Co. will begin paying higher rates as the result of the Ohio Public Utilities Commission ruling allowing the utility an increase of $17,975,181 a year.

The increase affects 108 communities in 13 Eastern Ohio counties, including parts of Columbiana County, but principally in Cleveland, Akron and Canton.

The long-awaited decision announced at Columbus Friday came as a climax to the longest hearings in commission history.

The utility sought $33.9 million in increases in additional revenue from about 800,000 residential and commercial customers.

The rate of increase reduces the company's request by approximately 50 per cent.

The commission said that based on testimony it found the company's base at present rates amounts to 4.03 per cent, which the commission said was insufficient to provide reasonable compensation for service rendered.

PUCO said the reasonable rate of return set by the increase is 6.25 per cent.

WASHINGTON — Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr., R-W. Va. reported he received contributions totaling $7,228 and spent $5,852 in his successful campaign for re-election.

The largest expenditure listed in the report Moore filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives was $2,243 paid to the Ohio Valley Advertising Corp. in Wheeling for billboards. The largest listed contribution was $2,000 from the Republican Congressional Committee in Washington.

Moore defeated Democrat John L. Larrie Bailey of West-on in Nov. 3 election to win a fifth House term from the West Virginia 1st District.

Air Force Installation In W. Va. To Be Closed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The Guthrie Air Force Station near Charleston will be closed as part of the Defense Department's nationwide shutdown and consolidation of military installations.

The Pentagon announced the cutback of 95 military bases Thursday, including the $4.3 million Guthrie installation.

The base, which opened in April, 1951, is a long-range radar tracking station.

Group Hears Auditor

Banking Changes Traced By Speaker At Lions Club

Soft music and warm smiles replacing the green visors and the changes in banking, particularly since the end of World War II, John K. Allison, auditor of the First National Bank, told the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Consumer credit and trust services have been significant changes but the biggest change, particularly in volume, has been in checking accounts, Allison said.

When he joined the bank in 1941, it had some 4,000 checking accounts. Today it has 8,000 and handles some 10,000 checks daily.

The growth in checking accounts and the desire to provide more efficient bank statements are the prime reasons First National now is using a computer at a data processing center in Pittsburgh, the bank official continued.

Posting is intricate work which formerly had to be entered by hand. Then came manual posting machines, and finally electronic devices.

Following World War II, the development of sensimatic machines occurred and then electronic machines which read magnetic film lines on checks and statements to render accurate information on accounts.

The checks used in the computer-type operation have magnetic numbers listing the bank's number so clearing houses can use machines to sort the various checks.

The "electronic brain" also reads the account number assigned each checking account along with the amount of the check, Allison explained.

For large corporations, another can be assigned to permit sorting the checks in numerical order, he added.

The computer provides a wealth of information for bank officials, including such information as how many accounts are overdrawn and how many and what checks are not covered by sufficient funds.

Although described as an electronic brain, the computer still must be fed the information. Unless an error is corrected, the machine will continue to give the original information fed to it, Allison pointed out.

He also emphasized that automatic banking has not reduced the number of employees. The only change at First National has been the elimination of two part-time workers who aided in preparation of statements.

The bank still has the 52 full-time employees it had before it joined with 64 other area banks in using the computer at the data processing center, he said. That's double the number of employees the institution had when he started work, Allison said.

Richard Emmerling, vice president and manager of the consumer credit department, who was a guest, lauded Allison for the smooth transition to the new method.

Allison was introduced by William Kyle, program chairman. George McCullough, chairman, reported on details of the club's annual Christmas party for needy youngsters, which will be held Dec. 18.

Woman's Sentenced In Starvation Death

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. Anne Mary Watson, formerly of Cleveland, has been sentenced to one to 20 years in the Women's Reformatory at Marysville on her plea of guilty to manslaughter in the starvation death of her 4-month-old son, Douglas.

Common Pleas Judge Thomas J. Parrino denied probation for the 32-year-old mother and former school teacher Friday de-rooms. Mrs. June Clark will be chairman. Santa Claus will be present, and each parent is asked to bring a gift for her child. The circle will furnish treats and refreshments.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Bernice Crawford and Mrs. Alta Nicholson. The buffet table was decorated with fall flowers and lighted tapers, and centered with a large punch bowl. Thirteen attended.

OSU Faces Michigan For Rose Bowl Trip

Notre Dame Risks Rating Against Iowa

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Brian Piccolo, college football's leading scorer and ground gainer, has finished the season in a slump.

For the first time in three games, the Wake Forest full-back failed Friday night to score all of his team's points. Piccolo, however, did score 21 in the Deacons' 27-13 victory over North Carolina State. The outcome severely damaged the loser's chances for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

The contest helped start the last full weekend of college competition. Holding the spotlight in today's action was the Midwest where top-ranked Notre Dame met Iowa while Michigan and Ohio State clashed for a trip to the Rose Bowl.

A victory would have given North Carolina State the ACC title. Now, however, Duke can win it by defeating North Carolina today.

Piccolo, who enjoys acting on the stage as much as he likes performing on the football field, gained 115 yards in 34 carries, bringing his final total to 1,044. His 111 points put him back into the national scoring lead and established an ACC record.

In another major game, Miami swamped Vanderbilt 35-17 as quarterback Bob Bilenkoff ran for three touchdowns and passed for another. It was Miami's fourth straight triumph after losing four and tying one.

Unbeaten Notre Dame sought its ninth victory today while aiming to solidify its hold on the No. 1 spot in the nation. Second-ranked Alabama was idle. Iowa's Gary Snook, along with snow which has hit South Bend, Ind., this week, could hamper the Irish hopes.

Quarterback Snook is the country's third leading passer and is second in total offense. Notre Dame's quarterback, John Huarte, ranks third in total offense, 287 yards behind Snook. Huarte, though, has thrown 14 touchdown passes to Snook's 11.

Seventh-ranked Ohio State is undefeated in five Big Ten games but can miss out on the title and a trip to Pasadena, Calif., by losing to once-beaten Michigan, No. 6 in the nation.

The Wolverines haven't won the Rose Bowl trip since 1950 when they beat Ohio State 9-3 in the final game played in a snow storm.

Elsewhere in the Top Ten, third-ranked Arkansas meets Texas Tech; Nebraska, No. 4, plays Oklahoma; Texas, No. 5, is idle; eighth-ranked Louisiana State battles Tulane; Syracuse, No. 9, plays at West Virginia, and Oregon, rated 10th, takes on Oregon State.

Many other traditional meetings dot the schedule. There are Pitt-Penn State and Yale-Harvard in the east, Tennessee-Kentucky and South Carolina-Clemson in the south, Rice-Texas as Christian and Southern Methodist-Baylor in the southwest, Purdue-Indiana and Wisconsin-Minnesota in the midwest and California-Stanford and Air Force-Colorado in the west.

Browns Face Packers

Colts Seek Title In Rams Contest

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
The last shall be first after the National Football League's battle of the basement is decided Sunday at Chicago and New York.

While Baltimore shoots for the Western Division title at Los Angeles and Cleveland tries to lengthen its Eastern Division lead at Green Bay, the defrocked Bears and Giants play hosts in a four-club cellar struggle. And the losers may turn out to be winners.

The first choice in next Saturday's NFL draft of college stars will be at stake when the Bears play San Francisco and the Giants meet Pittsburgh.

If the Giants, 2-6-2, lose to the Steelers, 3-7, they will get the first pick — which goes to the team with the worst won-lost record at the completion of Sunday's games. If the Steelers lose, they'll share the bottom of the pile with the Bears-49ers loser and a coin flip will determine who kicks off the draft.

The Bears, who have acquired Pittsburgh's first-round pick in a trade, conceivably could wind up with the first two selections in the grab-bag.

Last-place finishes by New York and Chicago in the East and West, respectively, would mark the first time in NFL history that both division champions made the full tumble. The Bears topped the Giants 14-10 in last year's championship play-off.

In Sunday's other games Detroit, mathematically alive in the Western race, plays Minnesota; St. Louis, second to Cleveland in the East, visits Philadelphia and Dallas is at Washington.

The Boston Patriots edged the Denver Broncos 12-7 Friday night in an American Football League game. Sunday's AFL pairings are New York-Oakland and Houston-Kansas City. San Diego and Buffalo, idle over the weekend, meet on Thanksgiving Day.

The Colts, bidding for a title-clinching 10th straight triumph, may find the Rams harder to handle than in their first meeting. The Colts won that one 35-20 on three long Johnny Unitas-Jimmy Orr touchdown passes in the second half.

Since then, Los Angeles has unveiled three offensive stars — quarterback Roman Gabriel, rookie pass-catcher Bucky Pope and rookie running back Les Josephson. Tackle Frank Varichione, bulwark of the Rams' offensive line, set out last week's loss to Chicago but is slated to play against the Colts, whose veteran end, Raymond Berry, may be unavailable.

The Browns are two victories away from the Eastern title but could wrap it up Sunday if they upend the favored Packers while the Cardinals lose to Philadelphia. The inter-division game will match the league's Nos. 1 and 2 rushers, Jimmy Brown of Cleveland and Jim Taylor of Green Bay.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Terrell and Cleveland Williams will meet for the World Boxing Association's version of the heavyweight boxing championship.

The WBA, which has stripped Cassius Clay of the title, said Friday that Terrell and Williams, ranked first and second

E. Liverpool Section Set At Steeler Game

An East Liverpool section will be reserved at Pitt Stadium Nov. 29 for the Steelers-St. Louis Cardinals game at which the East Liverpool High School Band will perform.

Vincent Maola, band director, said East Liverpool residents who wish to attend and occupy seats in the special section may contact James Boston at the Steeler ticket agency at the Steeler-Roosevelt Hotel in Pittsburgh.

respectively by the organization, will fight for the vacated crown at a time and place to be announced later.

The winner then will defend his title against the survivor of a fight, scheduled for Jan. 29, between former champion Floyd Patterson of New York and George Chivalo of Toronto. Patterson, ranked No. 3 by the WBA, and Chivalo, No. 4, have agreed to meet in a 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

The WBA made no mention of Clay, former champion, or Sonny Liston. They were to have fought in a title bout in Boston last Monday, but Clay had to undergo surgery for a hernia.

Clay's business manager, Bill Faversham, doubted that the public would accept the Terrell-Williams winner as champion.

"I don't believe the press or public will recognize either Williams who was knocked out by Liston twice or Terrell, who was Clay's sparring partner twice, as champion of the world," he said.

"What they ought to do is have the elimination tournament and have the winner fight Clay which we are perfectly willing to do after we fight Liston."

OEA Urges Teachers Rights To Negotiate With Boards

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Education Association convention has adopted a resolution calling for legislation granting teachers the right to negotiate with boards of education.

The resolution was one of several adopted by the 1,200 delegates Friday night.

Another resolution put the OEA on record as favoring the imposition of sanctions against members and school districts to prevent and end "unethical and arbitrary policies or practices."

The delegates also approved a proposed OEA study of the feasibility of granting financial support to members "who are candidates for the Ohio General Assembly."

Among several legislative policy statements adopted by the assembly was one approving a recommendation that Gov. James A. Rhodes and the Legislature "maintain equality and stability of programs of retirement benefits for members of all three public employ retirement systems."

Another urged that educational services be made available to all children in Ohio "provided they are compatible with good educational practices and are within the limitations" of the Ohio and U.S. constitutions.

Named president-elect of the 83,000 member OEA was Paul

C. Hayes, superintendent of Columbus' suburban South-Western School District. He will take office in 1966.

Robert Dowling, Alliance teacher, took over the presidency.

Elected to the OEA's 25-member executive committee were Margaret Berry of Kent, Louis Koenig of Oak Hills and Montgomery County Asst. Supt. Kenneth Crim.

Don McIlroy of Oberlin was nominated as a director of the National Education Association from Ohio.

A Canton junior high teacher, Mrs. Carol Kettering, was named president-elect of the OEA's Department of Classroom Teachers.

Earlier Friday, the OEA went on record in favor of proposed legislation which would increase the state sales tax to boost financial support of the public schools.

The proposal, one of eight items in the OEA's legislative program to be presented during the upcoming session of the Ohio Legislature, was adopted unanimously.

The bill, supported by the Ohio Council of Education, would increase the sales tax by one penny on the dollar to finance an additional $116 million annually in school support.

Plane Crash In Sweden Fatal To 31

ANGELHOLM, Sweden (AP)—A Swedish airliner approaching Barkarå field in rain and low clouds Friday night snagged its nose wheel on a railway power line and crashed in a ball of flame. Authorities said 31 of the 43 passengers and crewmen were killed.

The victims included three members of the Swedish Parliament, Gunnar Weibull, 45, of Landskrona, Gosta Edvin Bengtsson, 53, of Halmstad, and Mrs. Eva Karlsson of Helsingborg.

Authorities said the plane's second officer, a native of Norway, was the only foreigner among those killed in the crash.

The two-engine Convair 440 Metropolitan of Linjeflyg Airline, a subsidiary of the Scandinavian Airlines System, was on a scheduled late evening flight from Stockholm to Angelholm, on Sweden's southwest coast.

The pilot and co-pilot were killed instantly as the nose of the plane was smashed in.

Among the survivors were the plane's two hostesses and a 10-year-old girl.

It was the worst domestic crash in Swedish aviation, officials said. The worst previous accident occurred in September, 1950, when 10 persons died at Karlstad in central Sweden.

OFF THE RECORD

"He must know something we don't know."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What can be done about white furs that have yellowed?

A.—Many white furs are originally bleached with a "reducing bleach." After a time they take on oxygen from the air and start turning yellow. This can be overcome usually by spraying on a solution of hydrogen peroxide or by brushing with a soft brush. Sometimes hanging the fur in the sun afterward will speed up the re-bleaching process.

Q.—How can I clean an oil mop?

A.—By using hot water, ammonia, and a small amount of washing powder.

Q.—How can I keep a partly used can of paint from hardening?

A.—Try the same method that jelly and jam makers use for preserving. Pour some melted paraffin or wax over the top of the paint that is left in the can. This will harden into an airtight, protective covering.

Q.—How can I exercise greater economy with my shoe polish?

A.—To get all the polish that clings to the sides of the tin after the center part of the shoe polish has been used, hold the tin over a low heat. The wax will melt and form a new cake of polish.

Q.—How can I make a quick and easy job of washing a couple of guest towels that have been just slightly used?

A.—You can wash them out quickly and easily in your wash basin and stretch them flat against the tile wall of your bathroom or on the side of your tub to dry. In the morning, fold them by hand and hang them up, and you're ready for more guests.

Q.—How can I clean festive candles?

A.—By sponging with a piece of cotton dampened with alcohol.

Junior Editors Quiz on Deserts

QUESTION: How can plants and animals survive in a desert without water?

ANSWER: A desert is an area where less than 10 inches of rain fall every year. If there were no rain whatever in a desert area, one would find no plants and animals there, except such animals as used by travelers. But in many deserts, such as the American one shown in the picture, a certain amount of rain does fall. The plants and animals living there are those which have means of retaining this moisture and making it go a long way and of getting it from their food. Desert plants have several ways of getting water. Plants such as Yuccas and Mesquites send down very long tap roots which can penetrate to some underground water source. Others of the cactus family, such as the giant Saguaro we show, spread out a wide fan of roots just under the surface to gather the last drop when the rains do fall. Desert flowers grow furiously during a damp spell, flower and come to seed in a month. The seed, with its spark of life, will survive long dry periods. Reptiles flourish in deserts because their scaly skins keep moisture from escaping. Many insects are round in shape because this prevents moisture evaporating. And many desert animals can produce the water they need internally as they digest their food.

FOR YOU TO DO: Color the picture. Try to get the hot, dry feeling of the desert with yellows and browns — but the big tree cacti should be a rich green.

Robert Manning of San Mateo, Calif., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you may win the weekly prize of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia.

District Summary

Business Upturn Grows Stronger

The continuing upward trend in East Liverpool business and industrial activity grew stronger under October's impetus, it was shown today in the monthly summary of conditions issued by the Chamber of Commerce.

Nine of the 13 indices reached levels at the end of the first 10 months of 1964 that were well ahead of the points at which they stood at the same time in 1963. Ten of the indices showed gains in October, compared with September, while two were down and one was unchanged.

In the yearly comparison, there were gains in bank clearings and debits, industrial employment and payrolls, inbound and outbound railroad carloadings, river traffic and tonnage and new car sales.

THE DECLINES were listed in postal receipts, under car sales and parking meter receipts, while the city's relief case load rose.

Payrolls at 11 industrial plants hit $12,305,676 in the first 10 months of the year, up 12.1 per cent from the $10,979,748 shown at the same time in 1963. They reached $11,248,037 in October, a gain of 3.9 per cent from September's $1,201,150.

Employment at the same plants averaged 3,603 monthly in the first 10 months of the year, up 8 per cent from the 3,335 average shown at the same time in 1963. The plants had 3,631 on the job in October, virtually unchanged from September's 3,651.

NEW CAR sales in Columbiana County, another good barometer of prosperity, hit 3,559 for the first 10 months of the year, a boost of 13.4 per cent from the 3,138 shown at the same time in 1963. They reached 347 in October, a gain of 10.2 per cent from the 315 in September.

Inbound carloadings totaled 2,430 in the first 10 months of the year, a boost of 7 per cent from the 2,270 shown at the same time in 1963. They reached 272 in October, a gain of 15.3 per cent from the 236 in September.

Outbound carloadings totaled 4,007 in the first 10 months of the year, a gain of 10.5 per cent from the 3,626 shown at the same time in 1963. They hit 431 in October, a gain of 4.6 per cent from the 412 in September.

DISTRICT DAMS locked through 5,025 Ohio River tows in the first 10 months of the year, a gain of 14.4 per cent from the 4,393 listed at the same time in 1963.

30,000 In Ohio Ford Plants Due Back Next Week

CLEVELAND (AP) — Roughly 30,000 Ford Motor Co. employees in Ohio may return to their jobs by the end of next week as a result of a strike settlement late Friday at the Ford parts plant in Sterling Township, Mich.

A company spokesman here outlined the following Ohio picture, as scheduled layoffs were canceled:

Full operations will resume at the Walton Hills stamping plant near Cleveland with the No. 1 shift Sunday midnight.

The forge plant in Canton will resume operations at the same time.

Previously announced layoffs at both plants have been canceled.

In Brook Park, a Cleveland suburb, production will begin soon at two engine plants and a foundry. The resumption date will be announced late today.

At Lorain, the commercial vehicle production line probably will start Wednesday, with recall of 800 workers. The 3,400 employees on the passenger car line are expected to begin Friday.

Normal operations at two automatic transmission plants in Cincinnati will begin Monday.
